The LRE Foundation is a growing international, inclusive network that connects people and organisations dedicated to preserving and valorising the tangible and intangible cultural heritage related to World War II, its memory and meaning. The organisation's main objective is to make this history relevant and accessible, especially for the younger generations.

History

The LRE Foundation has its roots as a regional project in the Arnhem-Nijmegen region. In 2008, three of the area's museums – the Freedom Museum in Groesbeek, the Airborne Museum "Hartenstein" in Oosterbeek and the War Museum in Overloon – joined forces with Tourism Veluwe Arnhem Nijmegen (TVAN) to raise awareness of local World War II history by telling its stories and promoting its remembrance sites by creating a "liberation route". From the creation of a Foundation in 2011, the organisation established offices in the Netherlands and in Belgium, along with national branches in Italy, Germany and the United Kingdom.

Governance

An International Supervisory Board governs the organisation, while an Historical Advisory Board, comprised of leading historians, works to define the organisation's historical scope, content, and research. In 2021-22, a Members' Council will be set up to represent the members and advise the International Supervisory Board. Since 2012, Mr. Martin Schulz, Member of the German Bundestag and former President of the European Parliament, has served as the patron.

Funding

The LRE Foundation has been supported financially by the National Fund for Peace, Freedom and Veteran Care (vfonds) in the Netherlands since 2012, the European Union since 2013, and by the German Federal Foreign Office since 2020, as well as by memberships throughout Europe and North America.

National branches

The LRE Foundation has national branches in the Netherlands (since 2011), in Italy (since 2019), in Germany (since 2020), and in the United Kingdom (since 2021), and plans to open branches in other European countries in the future. Dutch, Italian, German and British organisations that join the Foundation are automatically members of the LRE Foundation and of the national branches. By being member of a national branch, they can enjoy additional structural support and increased visibility at the local and national levels. These members may access specific local and regional initiatives, which include communication, marketing, travel trade and networking activities. Moreover, national branches offer increased coordination at the national and international levels in close cooperation with the LRE Foundation.
